Please note: A predoctoral internship is a 12-month, full-time, capstone clinical training requirement of all health service psychology programs. Successful completion of the pre-doctoral internship is required for state licensure as a psychologist. Please note: the internship is distinct from practica training opportunities in the program. All Chatham University PsyD students accrue 12 credits of practica training prior to internship. For more information on pre-doctoral internships, click here.
