► Improve your English at Chatham University!

The English Language Program (ELP) at Chatham University is known for exceptional personal attention and strong commitment to student success. The ELP offers:

- Dedicated instructors with experience teaching English all over the globe
- Excellent support from staff and fellow students
- Conditional admission to degree programs
- Full access to all activities and services from Chatham University

ELP courses are taken by Chatham undergraduate students, visiting students from around the world (who can transfer these credits back to their home institutions), and non-degree-seeking language training students. Students develop the linguistic skills and content knowledge that allow them to thrive in a challenging academic environment.

Courses from the English Language Program are organized into two levels: Developing (or Intermediate) and Bridging (Higher Intermediate and Advanced). Depending on students' current English level, they can take up to three terms in each level of the program and up to five terms in both levels.

Activities

ELP students have lots of opportunities to practice English outside the classroom, with local and international students on campus and throughout Pittsburgh. Chatham offers activities including field trips, a conversation partner program, weekly conversation hours, international karaoke nights, and holiday celebrations.

Chatham and Pittsburgh

Chatham is in the heart of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, which has been consistently named the “most livable” city in the U.S. and one of the safest cities in the world. Pittsburgh is a center of education, technology, healthcare, and global corporations. Chatham is located between two of Pittsburgh’s most popular neighborhoods, Squirrel Hill and Shadyside, and is just minutes from downtown. Students are within walking distance of dozens of cafés, restaurants, bars, movie theaters, grocery stores, and Pittsburgh’s largest park, Frick Park. With a Chatham ID, students can take public transportation for free and receive free entrance to world-class museums. Students also have access to all other services and facilities Chatham has to offer, including tutoring services, workshops, dining services, postal services, counseling services, the Athletic and Fitness Center and pool, and many others.

Other programs

Part-time students and students from partner institutions can join the program in the middle of the term. In addition to semester-long courses of intensive English instruction, the ELP also offers customized programs to groups of participants. The length of the program can be as short as two weeks and as long as you desire. Examples of these programs are professional development programs for English language teachers, short-term language and culture programs, and short-term academic English programs.
