Dear Chatham Alumni and Friends,

Last year was a year like no other. Like the rest of the world, the Chatham community navigated truly unanticipated challenges and changes. It was the generosity of our alumni, friends, and employees who made sure that our students had what they needed that carried us through.

Considering the uncertainty and multiple hardships of the last 18 months, Chatham’s position of strength is even more impressive. We completed the 2020/21 fiscal year with $12,373,483 in support from 1,495 generous donors. Our fundraising was significantly boosted by $5,381,201 in CARES Act Relief funding. Thanks to your donations, we also achieved our highest annual giving level in more than seven years and raised $5,174,773 in scholarship and emergency aid for our students. Without your generosity, we would not have been able to welcome our largest class in Chatham’s history–430 new students!

Your commitment, generosity, and willingness to help have made Chatham a successful, thriving university. Thank you for being a crucial member of the Chatham community and supporting our students through your philanthropy!

May the year ahead be a safe, healthy, and happy one for each of you!

With gratitude,

David Finegold
From the moment I drove up Woodland Road, it reminded me of something out of a storybook. It truly felt like a magical place, and I knew then this is where I was meant to be." Nearly twenty years later, Dana Donaldson ’05 is still grateful to Chatham University for helping her to become the leader she is today. She shares her passion for Chatham then and now and the importance of giving back to the future generations of Chatham students.

Donaldson made many close friendships while at Chatham and her fondest memories are shared with many of her classmates, most of whom lived in Fickes. To commemorate her friendships, Dana later created an expendable scholarship called The Fickes Crew Scholarship. “This scholarship was a way to memorialize those memories, friendships and education that occurred outside of the classroom. We were inseparable and the amount of laughter we shared—it was almost like being on a dais at a roast; we all got one another and were there for each other. The attacks of September 11, 2001 happened within our first few weeks into our first semester of college—it was dark and scary times and those jokes and laughs were a necessity, just to have a reprieve from the seriousness around us.” The scholarship was an opportunity to give back to students with financial need and enhance their overall experience.

Thinking about how The Fickes Crew Scholarship was fully expended, Donaldson considered other ways she could continue to support students. When thinking about how she could make the biggest impact, she thought about those on the frontlines during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Her grandmother was a nurse at Children’s Hospital and had a passion for helping others. Feeling inspired by her grandmother’s legacy, she wanted to create a scholarship to help future front-line workers and created The Shirley Mae Milkovich Scholarship for physician assistant graduate students.

Not only has Donaldson given back through her scholarship support, but she also serves as an advisory board member for the Center for Women’s Entrepreneurship and as the President of the Alumni Association Board, where she plays a key role in keeping classmates engaged with their alma mater. “I am proud to support Chatham to give students a strong foundation in an ever-changing world. Chatham empowered me and it is only right for me to pay it forward.”

Evelyn Lewis Freeman ’70

Paying tribute to the hardworking ethic and love of her late parents, Evelyn Lewis Freeman ’70 established the Julia and Lou Lewis Scholarship for Undergraduate Women in their memory. Freeman’s parents were first-generation Americans, born to immigrant parents, who had a great love of learning and education. When thinking about the impact of the scholarship, she decided it was most meaningful to give first preference to a female student majoring in the arts, humanities, or education to celebrate her mother’s interests.

“It was important for me to name this scholarship after my parents because I was very blessed to have such a wonderful family. I attended Chatham on a scholarship and would not have been able to afford to do so without that financial support. Now that I am in a position to help others, I wanted to create a scholarship to help students who have similar circumstances and to give back to my University.”

When receiving word that the inaugural scholarship was awarded, she wanted to learn more about the student who benefited from the scholarship that honored her parents’ legacy. Freeman worked with Chatham to meet her student recipient, Riley Malicki, who was a first-year student majoring in education.

“I was eager to meet with Riley via Zoom! I was also thrilled to learn she was an education major, just like me! She is also interested in early childhood education, which was also what I studied. It was refreshing to hear that she is involved in hockey and softball considering there were so few opportunities for women in athletics when I attended Chatham. We actually had a lot in common, and I was happy to see that my scholarship went to such a deserving student!”

The scholarship also had a significant impact on Riley, who shared what the scholarship has meant to her. “My family really struggled financially during the COVID-19 pandemic and even the smallest amount of support went a long way—not only for myself, but with my family as well. There are not enough words to express my gratitude. I don’t think I could ever say thank you to you enough, but I know that this opportunity, to be here at Chatham, would not be possible without Evie and her support! This is without a doubt one of the greatest gifts I’ve ever had the pleasure of receiving!”

If you would like more information on how to help students like Riley, please contact Dana DePasquale, director of individual giving, at ddepasquale@chatham.edu or 412-365-1517.
Dr. Darlene Motley, Dean of the School of Arts, Science & Business (SASB) at Chatham University, has been a true pioneer and leader in her role. When accepting the position, she was enthusiastic about having the opportunity to work at a university where she could make a difference and influence change. After nearly a decade of service, Dean Motley is retiring and we are pleased to highlight the vast impact she has had on the Chatham community.

Reflecting on her time at Chatham, Dr. Motley shared how meaningful it was to begin at a pivotal time in Chatham history. When Chatham shifted to become an all-gender university, she was part of the leadership team that organized Chatham into four schools: the School of Health Sciences; the Falk School of Sustainability & Environment; the School of Arts, Science & Business; and the School of Continuing & Professional Studies. As inaugural Dean of SASB, she shares, “I was part of that from the beginning and it has driven how we look at our programs and how we work with our students in a more direct way.” SASB has had tremendous growth in our undergraduate programs and I attribute this to our dedicated faculty working with Enrollment in the coeducational environment Chatham has created.

Dr. Motley views one of the most significant and important roles she has held at Chatham University as being the Co-Chair of the Diversity and Inclusion Council. Dr. Motley and the Committee have challenged the status quo by identifying creative solutions to build a more inclusive campus community. The Council works with the Office of Diversity, Equity & Inclusion (DEI) to spearhead initiatives like evaluating accessibility, creating opportunities for students of color, and developing broader campus-wide initiatives that will be included in the University’s strategic plan.

“This is really an effort to do something across the entire community in terms of where do we see ideas and areas for improvement? Where do we see concerns? The way that we are right now, I think has been a major opportunity for Chatham. If I drill down just a little further—there are a few things that really stand out: the Diversity and Inclusion Council where we work with the Office of Diversity, Equity & Inclusion to bring concerns and ideas from students, staff, and faculty up to the highest levels of administration. The fact that we have the forum for people to bring their ideas and concerns straight to the President has been an important responsibility of the Council and DEI Office. Second would be the efforts that are being made across the departments that highlight DEI initiatives. The final piece is the search advocate training that we started last summer. We are training a cross section of people—both faculty and staff—to help with hiring within the organization, which is a big one!”

With her passion for helping students and making a difference on campus, her work does not stop there. Dr. Motley understands the importance of financially supporting the students and the programs that have been so important to her. “As a part of the leadership team, I think it is important to show our support for the University. I also like that you can select the areas where you can make a gift. It has been meaningful to me when I can pick something that has a direct impact on students. There are also valuable opportunities to support in the Diversity, Equity & Inclusion space to help our students of color, or going back to Chatham’s roots by supporting women.”

While Dr. Motley will be greatly missed at Chatham, the legacy of her work will be at Chatham for many years to come. Alumna Establishes Endowed Fund to Support Student Internships

In 2020, Judy Papernick ’79 and her husband Alan established The Judy Papernick ’79 Experiential Learning Program Endowment to provide paid internships for current undergraduate students. Experiential learning is a key component to a Chatham education. The knowledge gained outside of the classroom through internships, job shadowing, employment, volunteering, informational interviewing, and other real-world experience is essential. As part of Chatham’s experiential learning philosophy, all undergraduate students are required to participate in an internship prior to graduation.

“It has always been my goal to work with children and to position myself as a resource to them. I interned at a Pittsburgh organization called Gwen’s Girls* in their Academic Support Initiative. This is an assistive program for many at-risk youths within the Pittsburgh area, so I not only was able to pursue my interests within educating young people in the sciences, but I also was able to further cultivate my passion for psychology by acting as a mentor to these children.”

• Junior, BS in Environmental Science and Botany
• Undergraduate Chemistry Tutor
• Research Tech for Assistant Professor Dr. Utz, focusing on biodiversity and the effects of invasive plants at Eden Hall Campus

“My internship investigated the effect of increased atmospheric CO2 on poison ivy using historic specimens under the supervision of my mentor Dr. Ryan Utz and Dr. Mason Heberling, assistant curator of botany. This research internship was completed at the Carnegie Museum of Natural History in Pittsburgh. It allowed me to further my research and data analysis skills by working with herbarium specimens, using image analysis software, and collecting leaf morphometric data. Furthermore, I assisted the museum’s botany department by helping to digitize the herbarium. Improving science accessibility for people of all ages and backgrounds is a personal passion of mine.”

Sierra Short ’22

• Senior, BS in Human Biology
• Chatham University Dean’s List (2018-Present)
• President’s Athletic Conference Academic Honor Roll, Basketball (2019-Present)
• Undergraduate Biology and Anatomy Tutor

“The internship I undertook this past summer involved investigating relationships between great ape locomotion modes and enthesis morphology, which will benefit me as I intend to apply to medical school. This research assignment provided a unique opportunity to expand my knowledge about anatomical makeup, while granting me the option of analyzing structures utilizing three-dimensional (3-D) models and simulation tools such as Matlab. Using this toolset tied anatomy and advanced computer skills together, providing me with new research tools that will someday be valuable as I enter the field of medicine. Additionally, as I completed biological literature research, I learned more about how to explore primary resources effectively and efficiently, which is a skill of utmost importance in the medical field.”
We are grateful for our alumni and friends whose generosity helps Chatham’s innovative spirit thrive and brings our long-term vision for the University closer to reality. Because of you, Chatham students receive an unrivaled education that fuses modern, professional skills with traditional, liberal arts knowledge. Their success, both at the University and beyond, would not be possible without your contributions. The opportunities that you create for them at the University ensure that Chatham’s reputation for excellence will live on well into the future.

On the following pages, we recognize donors who made gifts between July 1, 2020 and June 30, 2021. Together, these donors committed more than $12 million to Chatham.
